Dave Raderman concentrates his practice in the areas of tax and business transactions, particularly tax sensitive real estate investments. His clients include both investors and developers of projects using federal and state affordable housing, new markets, renewable energy, and historic tax credits. Dave's practice also involves tax planning and the structuring of real estate and general business transactions. He lectures on topics such as affordable housing tax credits, historic credits, and the Maryland limited liability company act.

Dave has been recognized by Best Lawyers in America since 2013 as a leading lawyer in tax law.
